Chapter Three

Don’t Be Angry

So I have heard. At one time the Buddha was staying near Sāvatthī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s monastery.

There the Buddha addressed the mendicants:

“Once upon a time, mendicants, Sakka, lord of gods, guiding the gods of the thirty-three, spoke this verse:

‘Don’t let anger be your master,

don’t get angry at angry people.

Kindness and harmlessness

are always present in the noble ones.

For anger crushes bad people

like a mountain.’”

The Linked Discourses with Sakka are complete.

The Book With Verses is finished.
